Residents Race Their Hearts Out During the

News Briefs

Naval Dental Centers Promote Children's Dental Health Month

The American Dental Association (ADA) has declared February "Children's Dental Health Month." Many Naval Dental Clinics around the country support the ADA in this endeavor.

Tooth decay is still the most common chronic childhood disease that will not resolve without treatment. Children need strong, healthy teeth to chew their food, speak and have a good-looking smile. Total health, both physical and mental, is enhanced through good dental health habits learned early and reinforced throughout life.

Children's smiles can remain healthy with regular dental checkups and good oral hygiene. Other recommendations to ensure children's healthy smiles last a lifetime include:

- The ADA recommends a visit to the dentist within six months of the eruption of the first tooth, and no later than the child's first birthday.
- Never allow an infant to nurse continuously from a bottle of milk, formula, sugar water or fruit juice during naps or at night. Serious "baby bottle tooth decay" can be a result.
- Parents need to brush and floss their child's teeth as soon as they come in. Children can learn to do this for themselves at about age 7.
- When a child's permanent molars come in, ask about sealants if the pits and fissures in the teeth are deep.
- Allow children to chew only sugarless gum. Avoid lollipops and other sticky candy.

- If a child plays sports, make sure he or she always wears a mouth guard.

GTMO's Dental Clinic is holding a special day for exams and cleaning for children ages 4 to 10 on Feb. 28. Call 7-2239 for appointments.

Navy Exams 'Passed, Not-Advanced' May Equate to College Credit

By JO3 Amanda Hotz
Naval Station Rota Public Affairs

Some educational institutions have begun offering college credits for Navy advancement exams. Sailors who pass their career advancement examinations but are not advanced in their rate earn "passed, not-advanced" (PNA) points, which until recently were only helpful in enhancing their chances of being advanced in the next exam cycle.

According to the American Council on Education (ACE Guide), if PNA appears on a member's profile sheet and is posted on the Sailor Marine American Council on Education Registry Transcript (SMART), this means they may qualify for a certain amount of college credit.

The term PNA means that a person has demonstrated their occupational proficiency by passing the exam but has not been advanced because of an insufficient amount of points from sources other than the exam, or there may simply be no openings in a particular rate.

According to www.tpub.com, the Integrated Publishing page, the ACE Guide recommends the amount of credit to be awarded, but it does not guarantee that amount will be given to the member by civilian educational institutions. The college or university a student attends determines if the points on their SMART will qualify as academic credits and grants the credits according to the student's degree program.

Navy members may receive college credit from civilian schools for certain Navy training and work experiences, as well. These

March Advancement Schedule

Navy Wide Advancement Exams will be held at the Windjammer All Hands Club as follows:

Thursday, March 4: E6 exam

Thursday, March 11: E5 exam

Thursday, March 18: E4 exam

Muster no later than 7am in the uniform of the day with your ID card. Verify and sign your worksheets at PSD by close of business Feb. 20 for E6 candidates, Feb. 27 Feb for E5 candidates, and March 4 for E4 candidates. Any questions, contact PN1 Angel at 4465.

include service schools that are at least 45 contact hours; job experience in the Sailor's rating; limited duty officer or chief warrant officer specialties; and certain Navy enlisted classification codes that have been evaluated and recommended for college credit.

These credits are especially helpful to those who are very near graduating and need just a few more credits to complete their degree, or for individuals who are nearing the end of their enlistment and plan on going to school.

All Dressed Up & Ready to Run

The Hash House Harriers is one of GTMO's largest local sports groups and their runs for fun are legendary. For Valentines Day, their usual "run" criteria changes ever so slightly. This run made in a red, "valentine," dress and the attire rule includes all participants, male and female. The group gathered at the top of Harbor Lights hill to start their adventure and were seen following the course clues up and down local avenues Saturday afternoon.

Housing Offers Curb Appeal Guidance

Curb appeal is one of the most important items for all Housing properties. It forms the first impression of the Military Housing and as such, is important to our current residents and any future residents that may see the property.

Curb appeal is something that every resident must take pride and be an active participant in. Maintaining the proper curb appeal is an ongoing process that constantly needs work and fine-tuning. It begins with the daily policing of grounds by all residents, flowerbeds, and weed control. Everyone's help is needed to eliminate eyesores and look for other problem areas.

The following procedures should be performed daily:

1. Pick up all trash on the property including: cigarette butts, cans, paper, etc. Also, note any areas that need special attention as the daily routine is performed, i.e., making sure the carport is not use as a vehicle repair shop.
2. Identify Problems in Areas: Playgrounds, Basketball Courts, Cabanas, Water gutters, Dumpster Areas, Vacant Homes, Carport
3. Check Parking Lots for improperly parked or disabled vehicles.

The following should be reported to the housing manager in your area: 1) Safety Issues - loose handrails, steps, sidewalk cracks, and items that require immediate repair; and 2) street light fixtures out, sidewalks and curbs that are damaged.

These are your Local Area Housing Managers

Loretta Wells - Deer Point, Mobile Point, Evans Point, Paola Point, Nob Hill, Radio Point, Marina Point, Marine Site, Iguana Terrace, Center Bargo, West Bargo.

Pam Huff - Villamar, Grenadillo Circle, Miscellaneous Housing.

Donald Eldridge - Caravella Point, Caribbean Circle, Grenadillo Point.

Helpful Watering Tips from Housing

If you have window A/Cs, place a 5 gallon bucket under the drip outside and you can collect 5 gallons a day – depending on how you much you use that A/C.

If you have your washing machine located on an outside wall or in the corner next to the outside wall, contact your area Housing Manager about possibly hooking up to the grey water for collection to use on your lawn.

Wash your vehicle on your lawn and take care of two things at once – washing and watering! Not everyone has access to their lawn to do this so be aware of whether or not you can so you don't destroy your lawn, any curbing or your vehicle.

Use grass clippings to mulch around plants/flower beds. This will help retain the moisture longer after watering.

If you know of any other ideas that help you or any suggestions, please let us know and we will be glad to pass them on!

GTMO Residents Battle It Out In A St. Valentine's Day Xtreme Massacre

This Valentine's Day, some of the courageous men and women of GTMO put their heart and muscles into a battle to the finish at the St. Valentines Day Xtreme Biathlon Massacre.

With an early morning start at the Sailing Center, participants had to endure a 1.5 mile swim and a 20 mile bike ride before claiming victory.

As the warm morning sun rose, participants gathered in the cool GTMO water for a race to the buoy where they were picked up and returned to shore.

“Ingredients of a Happy Marriage” Essays Recognized

What better time of year to ask “What makes a happy marriage?”, than the month known for love?

Students at W.T. Sampson Elementary and High School recently participated in an essay contest on the “Ingredients of a Happy Marriage,” sponsored by the Base Chaplains.

The essays were a joy to read and had lots of surprisingly good advice for making a marriage a happy and lasting one.

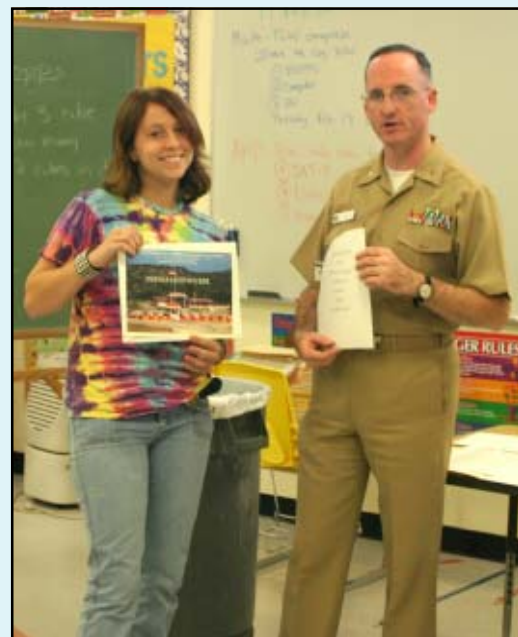

In the end though, there were two top essays chosen. One from the elementary school by sixth grader Hayden Kemp who wrote: “The ingredients of a good marriage are simple to figure out. In a way, marriage is like a cookie. In a cookie, the baking soda makes it rise. In a marriage, the love takes the place of the baking soda. The love makes the marriage rise. Without the baking you get a flat cookie. Without love, you get a flat relationship.”

The other winning essay was chosen from the high school entries and written by Amanda Faith Walker.

In her essay, Walker wrote “There can be no ingredients for a happy marriage because ingredients are exact and precise, and no marriage is the same. . . You cannot say that if you follow a certain list that you will have a perfect marriage or even a happy one. You could e reading someone else’s list. Make your own list; your own choices; and take a risk that you will never regret. . .fall in love!”

Thanks go to all the participants. Perhaps you will look back and use some of the advice you offered in your own happy marriage.

Naval Media Center Keeps Listeners “Tuned” In Through Tough Times

By JO3 Jeremy Zeitlin
Naval Media Center

Naval Media Center personnel are working around the clock to keep you informed. The main mission of Naval Media Center, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, is to provide radio broadcasts that include timely and credible coverage and publicity of local events that educate, inform, entertain and promote the Guantanamo Bay community. Recently, our ability to get command information, music, and entertainment out to listeners has been drastically reduced because of equipment casualties.

“Command information is normally automatic and inserted into 103.1 and 102.1 when our shows aren’t live,” said IC2 Daniel Nelson, Chief Engineer for Naval Media Center, Guantanamo Bay. “That system is no longer functioning due to a fire.”

Numerous problems have plagued the radio station including a small fire and losing four of their nine transmitters. “We’ve ordered $20,000 worth of new equipment and we’ll be ordering more,” Nelson added. Over the next three months the equipment will arrive and be installed by the Naval Media Center engineers.

Steps are being taken to keep listeners informed of command information. According to Nelson the Naval Media Center has increased “on-air” time so listeners get the most information they can around the clock.

“We’re sorry for the inconveniences the equipment casualties have caused listeners, but we’re are doing all we can to keep everyone information of base information,” said Nelson.

The new live show lineup is as follows and will remain in place until further notice. If you have any questions, call the Naval Media Center at 2351.

Sailors, Marines Now Eligible for FAA A&P License

By Lt. j.g. Doug Johnson

Center for Naval Aviation Technical Training Public Affairs

The Department of Defense (DoD) partnered with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to give enlisted mechanics in the military the same credentials as their civilian counterparts. For Sailors and Marines, the Navy and Marine Corps Airframes and Powerplant Program (NMCAPP) has been established at the Center for Naval Aviation Technical Training (CNATT), this program will ensure all aviation technicians are given the opportunity to earn the federal agency's industry standard certification.

In the past, military experience was not widely recognized by the FAA, significantly decreasing Sailor and Marine marketability in the civilian sector.

"Trying to get a civilian job without an Airframes and Powerplant (A&P) License is similar to trying to gain access to a military base without the proper credentials, almost impossible," said CNATT NMCAPP Officer Lt. Cmdr. Gabe Castro. "Well that time is gone, there are now certifications in place for Sailors and Marines, which allow our mechanics to enroll in the A&P licensing program."

In order to enroll, participants must meet basic eligibility requirements, being 18 years of age, having 36 months or more in service, and being an E4. It will take about 30 months to complete the entire program, which includes completing a Qualification Training Package (QTP), and passing a series of written and oral exams, as well as passing a practical test. After successful completion of the program and required exams, each participant will receive the airframes and powerplants certification from the FAA.

The benefits to Sailors and Marines include no out of pocket expenses as well as the ability to use their military experience and on the job training toward certification. Many non military universities and vocational technical schools offer FAA approved classes, but the cost associated with these courses can be overwhelming, even with tuition assistance and a GI Bill.

"Its one of the great new ways we are taking care of our Sailors and Marines" said CNATT Gunnery Sergeant Anthony Sosa. "It shows young Sailors and Marines that we are interested in their future as they continue their careers in the Navy and Marine Corps, but also after they leave their service and embark upon a civilian career."

For more info on the A&P Licensing Program visit the USMAP website at <https://www.cnet.navy.mil/usmap> or visit the Center for Naval Aviation Technical Training page on Navy Knowledge Online at www.nko.navy.mil.
